IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS IN HANCOCK

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Hundreds of people packed into Old Town Bay St. Louis on Saturday for the third annual Christmas in the Bay parade and tree lighting ceremony.

“This is just a great turn-out,” Mayor Mike Favre said during the event. “You couldn’t ask for better.”

Favre said his administration began the event as a way to help kick-start the holiday season in Bay St. Louis and encourage Hancock County residents to shop locally.

After the parade Saturday, hundreds gathered in front of the historic Hancock County Courthouse on Main Street for the Christmas tree-lighting ceremony — complete with foam “snow” — and an opportunity for the children to visit with Santa.

Santa will be back in the Bay this weekend for several other events — the Hancock County Tourism Bureau will present its 13th annual Christmas parade in Bay St. Louis this Saturday, Dec. 4, beginning at 11

The Waveland Community Unity Organization and Moss Towing last week presented two scholarships in honor of the late Hancock County deputy Lt. Michael Boutte Jr. to local residents who are pursuing careers in law enforcement. The recipients, Austin Jordan and Matthew Riascos, “exemplify the same things that Michael Boutte did — a love of community and a passion for law enforcement,” WCU President Clarence “Zeke” Hall said. “They have that same drive, so that’s why we chose them.” Pictured above are Bennis Moss, left; Austin Jordan and Clarence Hall. Our Lady Academy (OLA) invited 5th and 6th grade girls to experience a day as an OLA Crescent. Over 75 students from Coast Episcopal, Holy Trinity, and St. Vincent de Paul schools partook in the event. The event began with a special prayer service in Our Lady of the Gulf Church. Afterwards, students were afforded tours of the campus by twelve Ambassadors who also led them through all the planned activities. The Retreat team helped students create salvation bracelets and spoke to them about their faith and other OLA ministries. The Art Honors Society assisted the students in designing and creating Henri Matisse inspired cut-outs by collaging organic and geometric shapes onto construction paper. The highlight of the day for them was filming and reporting live the daily news in the WOLA tv station. The event was concluded with OLA’s Robotic Team’s demonstration of their newly completed 2021-2022 robot affectionately named ‘Kevin Hart’ and a special stand-out performance by the award-winning OLA Dance Team.

South Hancock Elementary Hosts Kool-aid and Cookies with a Cop

South Hancock Elementary School kicked off Red Ribbon Week with a visit from McGruff the Crime Dog and officers from the Hancock County Sheriff’s Department. Ms. Summer Jackson, Drug Free Communities Project Coordinator with Hancock Resource Center, and Ms. Sonya Miller, Chairman of the Hancock Community Coalition and Prevention Specialist with Pine Belt Mental Healthcare Resources, arranged to bring these groups together so the Kindergarten classes could have Kool-aid and Cookies with a Cop. The visitors passed out refreshments and visited with the students and staff. Ms. Jackson discussed positive, healthy behaviors with each of the classes while Sergeant Joshua Holland discussed seat belt safety. The students made a “pinky promise” with Sergeant Holland that they would wear their seatbelts and encourage all those in their vehicles to wear them as well. During Red Ribbon Week, emphasis is placed on being intentional about environmental safety at school and in the community. South Hancock would like to extend their appreciation to the following people who helped make this special visit possible: Summer Jackson, Sonya Miller, Earnest Taylor, Thomas Mallini, Ebony Naquin, Deputy Jillian Walker, Sergeant Joshua Holland, Deputy Joseph Gendreau, and Deputy Ariel Weller.

‘So this is Christmas?’

So now that Thanksgiving is out of the way, it’s time for people to start stressing about how they will pay for all the gifts they “need” to buy for their loved ones.

It’s also the time of year when we hear that phrase, “Put Christ back in Christmas,” because most Christians celebrate Dec. 25 as the birth of Jesus and think that people are trying to take that away from them.

The actual date of Christ’s birth is unknown, but back in 221, Sextus Julius Africanus — the first Christian historian known to produce a universal chronology — identified the day as Dec. 25, according to Britannica.com.

“One widespread explanation of the origins of this date is that Dec. 25 was the Christianizing of the dies solis invicti nati (“day of the birth of the unconquered sun”), a popular holiday in the Roman Empire that celebrated the winter solstice as a symbol of the resurgence of the sun, the casting away of the winter, and the heralding of the rebirth of spring and summer,” the website states. “Indeed, after Dec. 25 has become widely accepted as the date of Jesus’ birth, Christian writers frequently made the connection between the rebirth of the sun and the birth of the Son. One of the difficulties with this view is that it suggests a nonchalant willingness on the part of the Christian church to appropriate a pagan festival when the early church was so intent on distinguishing itself categorically from pagan beliefs and practices.”

Maybe the pagans should be asking for their holiday back, instead.

Merriam Webster states that the essential meaning of pagan is “a person who worships many gods or goddesses or the earth or nature and a person who is not religious or whose religion is not Christianity, Judaism, or Islam.”

And the truth is, “Happy Holidays” also includes a number of other December celebrations such as Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, Winter Solstice, etc.

No one is taking Christ away from anyone. In fact, we live in the U.S., right? The country where people are free to worship as they choose, even if they choose not to worship any deity at all.

So, maybe it’s not up to everyone else to “keep Christ in Christmas,” maybe it’s up to the Christians themselves.

They could start with taking down the Christmas tree. According to National Geographic.com, “ever-green boughs have been essential season decor since ancient times as part of pagan winter solstice celebra-

Hancock History: The Historic Zengerling Family | Part II

HANCOCK HISTORY

BY James Keating M.D.

In our last edition of Hancock History, the biographies and stories of the first generation of the historic Zengerling Family were presented. The Zengerling clan represented some of the first settlers to come to the neighborhood known as Bayou LaCroix. This article will address the second, third, and forth generations that resided there.

Joseph Albert “Joe” Zengarling ((1866-1950), a son of John and Barbara, was one of the second generation Zengarling family to live in Bayou LaCroix all his life. Like so many inhabitants of the era, he was a tree farmer who raised cattle, along with other farm products. The Zengarlings were self-sufficient and were not hurt by the Great Depression at all. Joe was a very religious man.

Joe married Mary Keziah McArhur (1877-1923) who was born in Gainesville. Their marriage reads like a romance story. Their daughter, Velma, tells the tale that her mother was actually reared in the Hickory Creek Community (Catahoula). At age sixteen, she traveled to Bayou LaCroix to visit her Seal cousins. The Seal girls suggested they take a ride over to the Zengerling house to visit Joe, a young man who, supposedly, was quite “good looking” at 5’8,” 135 lbs., with brown hair. During this era, there was a paucity of available romantic prospects for young people in small communities because the people there were often related. With Mary and Joe, it was love at first sight even though Joe was actually engaged to Edwina Holden. Consequently, a few weeks later, Joe broke off his engagement and wrote Mary a love letter. Indeed, they were married a short time later in 1894. Joe and Mary had ten children, but sadly Mary died in 1928 of stomach cancer at age fifty-one. Joe did not remarry and outlived Mary by twenty-two years. They are buried together in the Bayou LaCroix Cemetery.

Velma Agnes “Red” Zengarling (1912-1995) was the eighth child of the Joe/Mary union. She had red hair and the affectionate nickname of “Red.” Her mother, Mary, told her that red hair indicated that she was a “special child.” She was 5’3” tall, 115 lbs. with blue eyes. She attended the Dillville school in the Bayou LaCroix community and then attended St. Joseph Academy in Bay St. Louis for ninth grade. Tragically, her mother died in 1928, and her father asked her to drop out of school and come home to take care of the family. At age sixteen she became the “mother” to her other eight siblings still at home and took care of her father. She did most of the cooking, washing, cleaning, and housework. Velma was quite intelligent and possessed natural talents as a writer. She wrote “My Autobiography” in 1975. She also wrote a short story entitled “Mother” about the joys and disappointments of motherhood. Throughout her life she

Outdoor Survival

Guest Column

By James Cummins

The call of the outdoors beckons millions of people each year. While hunting, camping, hiking, and other outdoor activities are enjoyable, too many people embark on these adventures unprepared for potentially dangerous situations.

Planning is the key to an enjoyable and safe journey in the outdoors. There are several things that can be done to prevent, as well as prepare for, emergencies. Many outdoor emergencies are preventable. By learning a few skills, you can avoid potential hazards or prepare yourself in the event of a disaster. Following is a list of basics to consider before you head outdoors.

Know the area. Study topographical maps and familiarize yourself with the area you are heading to as well as surrounding areas. Pack a compass and download a competent GPS app—but do not rely solely on your phone as you will likely not have good coverage.

Know the elements within the area. Check with the local wildlife department staff for a list of dangerous or venomous animals found in the area. Also obtain a list of any toxic plants that may be found there and familiarize yourself with these things.

Know your limits. People in good physical condition will not tire as easily and will be able to travel farther and stay more alert. Fatigue and loss of alertness are major contributors to accidents in the outdoors.

Let others know where you are going. Wise hunters, anglers, and hikers will leave information with someone reliable. This information should include time of departure, location or destination, and expected time of return, as well as any emergency numbers. If the deadline for return passes, this person can notify the proper authorities quickly.

Assemble emergency supplies. Make sure that you have an adequate first aid kit. Take along any medications you may need and any supplies that may be beneficial in the event of an accident. Also consider taking a whistle along in case you become lost—it will aid the search team in finding you.

Check the weather forecast and dress appropriately. Smart outdoorsmen check the weather forecast and carry a radio with fresh batteries to monitor changes in weather.

Be aware of hypothermia. It is extremely important to prevent hypothermia. Hypothermia means lowered body temperature. It can start in wet conditions including rain, snow, or sleet. Sweating or even humidity in the air has the potential to chill you. Dress for the weather and stay dry at all costs.

Avoid sweating and fatigue. Set a steady pace. Everyone should match the pace of the slowest person. The more energy you put out the higher your chances of sweating and losing energy reserves.

Don’t rely on a phone. Today, more people rely on their cell phone to get them around or call for help. You are less likely to have adequate cell coverage in the wil-

SIDNEY LOUIS MANIX

Sidney Louis Manix, 87, went to be with the Lord November 20, 2021. Sid was born on January 27, 1934 in New Orleans, LA and was raised in the Irish Channel. He lived directly across the street from Kingsley House where he learned great skills in carpentry and became an avid swimmer and a member of the Semi-Pro basketball team, the Whiz-Kids. At 18 he joined the United States Army and served honorably. Following the Army, he was a salvage diver with Taylor diving in New Orleans. He also worked as a member of the local 53 Asbestos Workers Union. He later worked for Brown and Root and Borg-Warner when he and his wife moved to South Mississippi. After retirement he dabbled in real estate and light remodeling.

Sid was an avid gardener, loved fishing and camping, but his greatest passion was serving the Lord with gladness! Through the years he served in ministry to the little ones in the nursery, Royal Rangers, Awana, and Sunday School. He also served as Trustee, Deacon, and in men’s ministries as well. The toughest one, yet the one he was so passionate about was the prison ministry, both in South Mississippi and Tennessee following hurricane Katrina.

Sidney was preceded in death by his parents Elvin and Mary Elizabeth Manix and four siblings, Elvin “Pat”, Elizabeth, Rita and Maurice “Mo”.

He is survived by his loving wife Barbara and his four children; Randy Manix, Krisste Polisher, Erin Manix, and Matthew Manix (Kelly). Also, his grandchildren Shannon, Elijah, Bethany, Benjamin, and Luci, and one great-granddaughter Camdyn (doodle-bug).

The committal service for relatives and friends will be held at 10:00 AM, Friday, December 10, 2021, at Biloxi National Cemetery. A celebration of a life well lived will be held at Church of The Good Shepherd in Long Beach Mississippi on Saturday December 11, 2021, at 2 pm with an open reception to follow in the fellowship hall.

The family wishes to extend their gratitude to St. Joseph Hospice for such loving care and compassion and to Reimann Funeral home. In lieu of flowers, Sidney requested donations to be made to: Adult and Teen Challenge in New Orleans, PO Box 73681, Metairie, LA 70033

Advent Thoughts

By C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN.

C. Gerald Richardson, D. Min.

The Christian season of Advent is upon us. It is a good time to ponder the meaning of individual spirituality. This column has sometimes pointed out that spirituality and religion are not the same.

Being part of a religious tradition usually implies some kind of doctrine which is generally accepted within a particular church or group. The range of expectation may be quite narrow, or it may be very broad. In either case some kind of prescribed belief system is implied.

Spirituality, on the other hand, is primarily an internal exercise. It includes silence, meditation, and attention to spiritual wisdom which emerges from the stillness of our souls. It touches places deep within us, and it offers the opportunity to consider life in terms of those insights.

In general terms, religion tends to be corporate. Spirituality is more likely to be understood individually. Many people feel the need to be connected to both. Religion as well as internal spiritual practice may both play a prominent role for some. For others spiritual satisfaction is a uniquely personal matter.

Some religions observe certain seasons of the year as times of significant importance. We are currently entering into such a time. For Christians the season is called Advent/Christmas. For Jews it is Hanukkah. Other traditions observe different days of special import. Each of these represent times of internal spiritual inventory, reflection, and a call to a higher emphasis on the examination of our lives. It is in these times that religion and spirituality are most likely to intersect. Worship attendance will usually increase. People will often spend more time in internal reflection. This is good for us. It encourages our engagement in a personal inventory of life. Where can we grow? How can we become more in tune with the deeper parts of our humanity? Are there ways in which we can become kinder, more gentle, more open to the possibilities before us?

This is not a time to beat ourselves up, or to take a guilt trip. Rather it is fitting to invite a fresh spirit of grace and love to wash over us. It is a time to trust in goodness, in hope, in the joy of the gifts of life. It is also a time to make new commitments or to renew older ones which may have gone somewhat stale. It offers us a chance to reconnect with that which is beyond us. Some of us call it God.

Others use other terms. Whatever word is applied we are helped by the reminder that we do not face life on our own.

In the affirmation of faith for The United Church of Canada there is a compelling phrase which deserves notice. "In life, in death, in life beyond death, we are not alone, for God is with us."

That is good enough for me. I have staked my life on it.

son County CASA, they’re all in the same situation,” The Blind Tiger owner Thomas Genin said Monday. “They’re busy, they’re short-staffed, they don’t have enough volunteers. People don’t have the time, people don’t have the money to help.”

Genin has raised money for CASA of Hancock County for the past seven years.

“The first year, my wife and I, and the business, we just donated money,” he said. “We pledged $5,000. The next year, we challenged other businesses to do the same and matched their donations dollar-for-dollar.”

Last year, Genin’s TBT challenge raised more than $17,000 to aid the agency’s mission to help foster children in Hancock County. Genin said that this year, he hopes to raise more than $30,000 for all three coastal county CASA programs.

CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate program) recruits, trains and supports volunteers who advocate for children who have been abused or neglected to ensure that their best interests are preserved in court and in the community.

While the number of children in Hancock County’s foster care system has significantly decreased over the past three years, more than 60 children at any given time are currently in foster care in Hancock County. These children come into the child welfare system through no fault of their own. About 75-80 percent of the cases involve neglect because of substance abuse/addiction.

“The drug crisis is just out of control ...,” Genin said. “I know CASA is definitely working hard and I know the employees and volunteers working there every day are in it for the right reasons. The money goes to the cause, to help the children, not some corporation.”

“The needs of Hancock County’s children coming into care are more complicated than ever before, and life in foster care can be chaotic,” said Cynthia Chauvin, CASA of Hancock County’s executive director. “Every child deserves the support of a caring, consistent adult with the training to help them heal and thrive.”

Chauvin praised Genin’s continued efforts to help area children.

“We really appreciate Thomas and The Blind Tiger and everyone who so generously donates each year,” she said.

The challenge — which this year also includes Genin’s Marina Cantina in Gulfport — runs the whole month of December. Genin said that anyone who donates $500 or more will be entered into a drawing for $500 worth of food from either The Blind Tiger or the Marina Cantina.

“This year has been especially hard on (the Coastal CASA programs) because we all jointly have a federal grant that we all received an across-the board reduction due to a reduction of federal funds,” Chauvin said. “The money raised is needed more now than ever. Because that loss — between the three programs, that was preciation to Charles and celebrate the immeasurable impact he has had on the success of the Hancock County Historical Society.

If you see Charles Gray walking around town with his signature walking stick or see him driving around in his red convertible T-Bird with his canine companion of many years, Maxwell, wave! You may want to say “Thank you!” or “Congratulations!” if you can catch him!

Charles Gray sailed into the St. Louis Bay in 1984 and it was love at first sight. He became a member of the Hancock County Historical Society and became the Executive Director. His love of architecture turned his focus on the Kate Lobrano House, located in old town Bay St. Louis. The house was gifted to the Society in 1988 by her grandchildren. In bad need of restoration, Charles gathered the community to restore the shotgun-style home to become the historic home of the Hancock County Historical Society.

The Hancock County Historical Society Board of Directors are honoring Charles with a big splash Tuesday, December 7th at the Silver Slipper Casino & Hotel. Those lucky enough to obtain a seat are in for a treat. The gala’s highlight is the premiere of the film “Connections Matter: An Oral History of the People & Places of Hancock County” starring Charles Gray.

Guests will enjoy a meet and greet, dinner, and a few surprises in-between before the screening of the film. The planned fundraiser will no doubt be a barnraiser that evening.

Mississippi born and bred, Charles has made Bay St. Louis his home since 1984. His research of the architecture, history and people of Hancock County is well-known. His mission is to promote and preserve the cultural heritage of our uniquely, old-timey Southern/American historic districts throughout Hancock County including the families in cities, rural areas, and cemeteries.

His inspiring stories that begin with the founding of Hancock County in 1699 through the current day are beloved by the people who have heard him speak across the Gulf Coast and throughout Mississippi.

The artifacts and archives he went to great lengths to procure and protect even survived Katrina. His vision and protection of the Society’s mission has provided a treasure trove for those looking for family history or wanting to learn about the history of Hancock County.

“Our goal was to capture Charles on film so his energy and passion could be appreciated for years to come,” remarks Virginia Olander, the Director of Communications for the Society, who was the producer and creative director of the film. “Charles is a natural on film because he has done an investigative study of Hancock County. He loves to share his knowledge and is a storyteller par excellence. His enthusiasm, wit and attention to detail shines through the film. He deserves this legacy that will live on for years.”

This is the perfect time to let Charles know how much we appreciate his unique role in our community. Take a moment this week to think about how we got here and where we are going. Bay St. Louis and Hancock County are positioned for a great future with our resources and people who have chosen to live right here in this place in this great country of ours.

Thank you, Charles, for connecting our history as we prepare for the future. The time has come for us to celebrate your immeasurable impact and leadership from all of us to you.

born in New Orleans, LA and raised in Bay Saint Louis, MS. Booker’s unique style combined rhythm and blues with jazz standards.

Musician Dr. John described Booker as “the best black, gay, one-eyed junkie piano genius New Orleans has ever produced.”

Booker Fest is designed to bring awareness to one of the town’s most gifted artists who played all around the Bay and on the historic stage at the 100 Men Hall. Booker Fest will include a night with Joe Ashlar’s organ trio, a morning gospel tribute by the esteemed The Collective and an afternoon piano tribute by two of New Orleans piano greats, Josh Paxton and Tom Worrell, followed by spoken word artist Sunni Patterson, singer songwriter Sunny War, and Booker plus tunes spun by DJ T Swan, all while screening Lily Keber’s acclaimed documentary on Booker, Bayou Maharajah, AND ending the weekend with an outrageous Drag Brunch by Catastrophe, Zamaireyah, Latonia and Misty in Booker’s honor. BWYC wins coveted Silver Lipton trophy

BY JAMES KEATING MD

The premiere event of the Gulf Yachting Association (GYA) 2021 sailing competition schedule was the Sir Thomas Lipton Challenge Cup Regatta on October 29-31, 2021. In 1919, this magnificent silver trophy was presented to the Southern Yacht Club (SYC) by Sir Thomas Lipton (1850-1931) to be used as a challenge cup for sailing races. The SYC was proud to host in New Orleans the 100th anniversary of this event. The first Lipton Regatta was in 1920. This regatta was cancelled in 2020.

The Bay Waveland Yacht Club (BWYC) won the 100th Lipton Regatta competing against thirteen other clubs. BWYC prevailed in this regatta with scores of 1-1-1-3. Total: 6 points. The winning skippers of the four races were awarded the following trophies:

Floyd Davis Trophy: Zak Fanberg (Crew: Andrew Eagan, Sara Fanberg). J Fred Clerc Trophy: Ricky Welch (Crew: Boo Heausler, Jackson Benvenuti). Michael J Johnson Trophy: Eugene Schmitt (Crew: Andrew Eagan)

skipper for the fourth race for BWYC with Sarah Fanberg and Jackson Benvenuti as crew. Conner came in third.

The Lipton Regatta is a one-design race of Viper 640 high performance sport sailboats. Each club must use a different skipper in each of four races and enters only one sailboat. A crew member may sail in one or two races (skippers may not crew). Team selections are submitted one hour before the start of the race, and the crew of sailors must weigh 425 pounds minimum.

Team strategy in light wind such as was present during this regatta may require carefully executed deployment of resources. One strategy is to wait until the last possible moment (one hour before the start) to make the best guess at what the wind would be, and choose the skipper who was best suited for those conditions. A light weight crew is better in light air; a heavy crew is needed in a blow. Another strategy is rather than use a champion sailor or as helmsman (skipper), this extraordinary sailor in a club might be of more value as crew in two races. Though this means he/she isn't allowed to touch the tiller, he/she could help call tactics and sail trim for two less-experienced skippers.

Each year competition is intense between archrivals BWYC, SYC, and Pass Christian Yacht Club (PCYC), as well as the other yacht clubs in the GYA.

Each yacht club hopes to display the Lipton victory banner over their clubhouse bar during the following year (see photo). The GYA promotes and enforces rules and regulations to foster vigorous interclub competition, but with a spirit of good sportsmanship and fair play. The GYA wishes that all our sailors, young and old, on the Gulf Coast, enjoy fair winds and following seas.

Shore Thing: Fishes and Kisses

Shore Thing
Fishing Report
BY CPT. SONNY SCHINDLER

Originally, the trip was supposed to be a much needed family trip. I haven't fished with my wife(Stephanie) and daughter(Margot) since June. We were all excited. Margot wound up having a Girl Scout sleep over party, so the trip wound up being just me and Steph.

It has been many years, since she and I have fished together, just us. Yes, we have had numerous trips with Margot, friends and family. This was a long overdue treat. We stole one from the weatherman. The predicted winds and rain never showed. We had overcast skies, a light breeze, and cool temps.

At our first stop, inside Bay St Louis, I told her we sometimes see eagles. As if on cue, two eagles flew a few feet over our heads. We hadn't even made a cast yet. We could hear several of the other charter boats on the radio, and ALL of them were on fish. Steph wondered if we were gonna go fish next to them? I told her we are gonna do our own thing today, "It's just me and you today".

We found plenty of fish. Stephanie was slinging in slot reds left and right. We tagged all the small ones, and she even caught her first ever tagged fish! We only checked our phones if Margot needed us.

Steph works full-time, my schedule is horrific, and the weekends are super busy for everyone. This may have been the most Uninterrupted time we've spent together in years.

Honestly my favorite part of the day was the one cove we fished, and didn't even get a bite.

SSC’s Farni wins International Power Showcase in Miami

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

Saint Stanislaus junior Seth Farni had a lot to be thankful for over the Thanksgiving break as he traveled to Miami to take part in the 14th annual International Power Showcase amateur homerun derby held at Marlins Stadium on November 20 and left as the event’s overall champion. Major League All-Stars such as Kris Bryant and Bryce Harper have participated in the showcase.

Farni joined top amateur power hitting prospects from 27 countries around the world and throughout the United States to display their skill in a Major League stadium in front of the sport’s best scouts.

The showcase featured age divisions from 12U to Featured Division (2022 seniors).

Farni was in the Underclass Division (2023 seniors).

Farni commented, “The showcase was an amazing event. Not many people are presented the opportunity to participate so I am extremely thankful that I was given the chance.”

There were 60 invited players in each age division and only three advanced to the finals. The first five outs featured the batters using a wood bat and the last 15 outs were with a metal bat.

Farni’s final total with a metal bat was 37 total homeruns with four consecutive homeruns and a longest homerun of 444 feet. His wood bat final total was 7 total homeruns with four consecutive homeruns and a longest homerun of 406 feet.

Farni claimed five titles in the showcase including most wood bat homeruns, longest wood bat homerun, Underclass Division title, Most Homeruns total, and Overall Showcase Champion. He also set a record for homeruns in a round with 27 breaking the old record of 25.

Saint Stanislaus head baseball coach Brad Corley stated, “Having a player of his caliber in our program makes everyone around him better. His work ethic and approach to the game goes beyond his years and has had a profound impact on the entire baseball program. We are so excited to have him as a member of our squad and look forward to witnessing the development of the team over the course of the season.”

Farni, a 6-foot 188-lbs Ole Miss commit, plays both outfield and pitches. He batted .350 last spring with eight homeruns.

Holiday hardwood tournaments warm the heart during the break

As the schools were enjoying a week long break for the Thanksgiving holiday last week, the area basketball teams were in a zone trying to get better for the initial push into the start of division play coming up this week.

All the teams, except OLA, were involved in holiday action.

The Bay High Tigers (3-6) dropped two games to St. Martin 56-37 and a 43-32 decision to Theodore HS.

The Lady Tigers (6-4) dropped a 59-30.

The Hancock Hawks (8-0) remained undefeated with a 53-23 victory over Jefferson Davis County while the Lady Hawks (7-1) beat North Forrest 59-24.

Pass Christian (4-5) dropped a game with Harrison Central 73-46 while the Lady Pirates tripped against Harrison Central 38-34 to fall to 5-2.

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-Rock-A-Chaws played three games during the break. On November 22-23, SSC fell to both Picayune 69-41 and McComb 55-44.

However, on November 26, the Rocks picked up their first win of the Daniel Grieves era with a victory over Poplarville.

We got to sit down together, talk, laugh, and just enjoy each other’s company.

The last stop of the day was loaded with puppy drum and rat reds. We just cranked up the Yacht Rock Radio, and kept slinging in fish.

Back at the launch, we were putting the fish in the back of my truck. I was asking her to help to to remind me to...

and she interrupted, “I know, I know, don’t forget the fish. I told her NO, please don’t let me wait this long to take us fishing again. That comment earned me a nice lil smooch from my fishing partner. It was a good day!
